Meet Monica

Monica McLaurine is the T.O.T.A.L. Coordinator with the Nashville Public Library's T.O.T.A.L program. She is nationally known and has presented workshops in several National Bullying Conferences across the country. In her over 10 years of experience in dealing with bullying, her desire is to challenge traditional ways of dealing and coping with bullying. Also during her tenure as the T.O.T.A.L. Coordinator, T.O.T.A.L. was named the recipient of three national awards. One of the most prized awards is 2014 National Anti-Bullying Recognition Award from the School of Safety Advocacy Council.

Currently, Monica published her first book, Becoming Comfortable In My Own Skin. The Journey to Loving Me. Her hope is to inspire others to live healthier, and be persistent in accomplishing their individual goals. She also addresses her personal experience in dealing with bullying throughout her school years and how the effects bullying carried over in to her adult life. She is currently working on her second book expected to be released April 2018.
